Reflection

Well, Peter knew fish, but Jesus knew his mission. The marvelous catch of fish brought everything into focus for Peter, who had already spent some time with Jesus and had witnessed other miracles. But now he saw anew. He fell to his knees, suddenly aware of who Jesus was and who he was—or was not. Who Peter was and what he lacked did not matter. Who Jesus was and what he asked mattered absolutely. Peter knew this, and he knew that this was it. Along with his fishing partners, James and John, Peter left his boats and his fishing and followed Jesus.

Today we hear from one last apostle, who was as surprised as anyone could be about his calling—Paul. He does not set forth the story of his calling but rather the mission for which he was called. We have in today’s second reading the Church’s oldest surviving faith statement. Paul sets out the hard-won and fiercely proclaimed credo that formed the heart of the Church and claimed the hearts of its members.

These stories of the beginnings of a new life for Isaiah, for Simon and his shipmates, and for Paul, all witness to an undeniable sense of the mystery of God and of each individual’s sense of inadequacy. But above all, these stories communicate God’s abiding grace, which makes their new life and mission possible.

CONFIRMATION On Friday, February 12th Bishop Foy will come to St. Joe’s to confirm our Eighth Grade students. Eighty-five young men and women will profess their faith in the Catholic Church. Please pray for them that they will be open to the Gifts of the Holy Spirit.

Please Welcome To The St. Joseph Community Our

Easy Way to Help With the Offertory at Mass

We have tried a number of ways to organize taking up the gifts at the Offertory of Mass. Each way has had limited success.

Taking up the gifts is an easy way to make attending Mass extra special for an anniversary, birthday or other personal celebration, without any special planning or preparation. Children, especially, enjoy participating at Mass in this way.

Any two or more people who would like to assist at Mass by taking up the Offertory gifts can simply let an usher know this as they come to Mass. Then sit at the end of a pew on the center aisle. After the collection, and as the usher brings the collection basket up the aisle, get up to go to the offertory table. One person takes the wine, another takes the hosts, if there are more than two persons one may take the collection basket from the usher. Take the gifts to the priest who will be standing at the top of the aisle.

Please consider helping at Mass in this very simple way.
